"Our flight out of Lukla is on a 20-seat prop. At the top of the sloped 100M runway, the pilot jams on the brakes, builds the revs and prepares to slingshot our craft down the strip, off the edge of the mountain and, hopefully, up into the air."

"In a temple at Angkor Wat, I have attracted a crowd of guards. After 20 wordless minutes of painting, I become frustrated as I cannot reach the far ends of the canvas. Without speaking, I reload my brush and pass it to the nearest guard who grasps the brush and paints the far corner of the painting just as I would. The other guards erupted in laughter."
